Jeffers, Davis are tops in Kaimin test

Jane Jeffers, candidate for ASMSU president, and Dorothy Davis, candidate for senior delegate to Central Board, both rang up a perfect score in the Kaimin test on the ASMSU constitution, given Wednesday to all candidates for top ASMSU offices. Lester Margetts, candidate for president, Mary Brome, candidate for vice president and Margie Garrison, candidate for the office of secretary, each scored 99 out of a possible 100 points.

The test was given under the supervision of Dr. Gordon B. Castle and was corrected under the supervision of several members of Central Board. George Savage, Bob Tucker, Verne Fisher, Archie Lowthian and Stewart Brandborg were not present to take the test Wednesday but all had made arrangements beforehand to take one before Tuesday. Their names and grades will be published in Tuesday's Kaimin. If for any reason there is no Kaimin on Tuesday because of the uncertainties of next week, the names of these candidates and their grades will be posted around the campus.

Following is a list of the candidates and their grades:

For ASMSU president—Janet Reinertson, 95; Lester Margetts, 99, and Jane Jeffers, 100.

Vice president—Mary Brome, 99, and Virginia Frach, 97.

Business manager of ASMSU—Marilyn Hillstrand, 95; Pat Murphy, 87, and Wiley Welch, 85.

Secretary of ASMSU—Garnet Sethne, 86, and Margaret Garrison, 99.

Senior delegate to Central Board—Jean Warner, 68; June F. Sanders, 89, and Dot Davis, 100.

Junior delgate to Central Board—Mary Morrow, 89, and Wilma Oskendahl, 93.

Sophomore delegate to Central Board—Ellen Mouat, 88; John Rolfson, 72; Carol Ferguson, 56, and Don Kern, 93.

Harris Hogan heads MSU's San Francisco conference

Monday's convocation on the San Francisco conference, with MSU students acting the role of delegates to a conference of their own, will have a dual function, according to Harris Hogan, Great Falls, who will act as chairman for the program.

"We hope the convo will emphasize the importance of the San Francisco conference to take place April 25, and also clarify what the conference is trying to do," he said in an interview yesterday.

Well read on world affairs himself, Hogan is well known to the campus. He is married to the former Betty Reed, Great Falls.

He has been at MSU for almost three quarters now, after twenty months service with the armed forces. A law major, he is interested in the post-war rehabilitation program.

"Monday's convocation should be a convocation every student will want to attend. The Dumbarton Oaks plan to be considered at San Francisco is the last best hope of the world for the prevention of World War III. None of us can afford to sit back this time and say 'Let George do it'."

A further good that the convocation will accomplish was emphasized by Hogan when he said, "A lot of people have put much work and research into the preparation of their roles in MSU's own world conference. Each student working on it has learned a lot about the plan for world peace formulated at Dumbarton Oaks."

Hogan paid special tribute to E. L. Freeman, professor of English, who has prepared bibliographies, outlines, and other research material for students. It has been Mr. Freeman's efforts and patience that have kept the conference going," Hogan said.

AWS will re-elect officers Monday in Student Store

June Sanders, Troy, and Dorothy Mather, Two Dot, are the candidates for AWS presidency which head the slate drawn up at the AWS eliminations Wednesday.

Doris Johnston Brady, Thompson Falls, and Jane Solvie, Saco, will vie for the vice-presidency, Una Mae Arras, Cut Bank, and Miriam Moody, Missoula, are the candidates for secretary, and Jean Bartley, Great Falls, and Lois Sanders, Troy, are running for the office of treasurer.

The special meeting was called to organize a new candidate list after three of the four newly elected officers had been disqualified last week. Elections will be Monday in the Student Store from 9 to 5 o'clock.

McCool drops candidacy for president

SOS provides hottest campaign rally in years; high spirit prevails

Lukewarm campaigns are out for the duration!

Last night's SOS which was the hottest campaign rally in four years ignited student interest and ended up in a bonfire of enthusiasm and spirit. Floating banners, thumping bands and a screaming throng flung forth the names of ASMSU's candidates for the coming election. Between yells for "the people's choice" and speeches of the candidates, enthusiasm was calmed down by university songs only to flare up again when the last bar was sung.

Anti-climax of the evening came when Colleen McCool, candidate for ASMSU presidency, dashed breathlessly up to the microphone to announce her withdrawal from the race, leaving Les Margetts, Jane Jeffers, Janet Reinertson and George Savage to fight it out.

Two factions—for Jeffers and Reinertson—marched up to the steps of Main Hall with banners flying and their two bands pounding—each trying to drown out the other. Wayside stragglers joined each line and marched triumphantly to the foot of Main Hall.

Supporters for Savage made a grand entrance with honking horns and campaign placards perched high on each car displaying the slogan—"Up with Montana—Up with MSU—Up with Savage." Campaigners for Les Margetts streamed to Main Hall with tooting horns and similar campaign messages.

Silence reigned with the singing of "College Chums" only to be shattered again as students neared the end of the oval. And, once again, cars bearing students holding posters for their favored candidate shot down University avenue and crowds thronged the sidewalks using lung energy to boost their man of the hour.

Jo Ann Blair is new WAA president

Members of WAA elected Jo Ann Blair, Missoula, as their new president in an election held yesterday in the Student Store. The loser, Elaine Hoover, Circle, automatically became the new vice president.

B. I. Smith, Ponca City, Okla., outran Edythe Keig, Anaconda, for the position of secretary, and Peg Connor, Helena, won the treasury from Eileen Volk, Great Falls.

Campus statesmen plan parley on major issues of San Francisco meet Monday

MSU's Molotovs, Anthony Edens, and Stettiniuses will group around the conference table to bring up major issues of the San Francisco parley at 10:30 o'clock Monday in the Student Union Auditorium.

ATTENTION STUDENTS

Latest communique from Aber Day Chief Hugh Edwards reports a few changes in the coming holiday routine.

Orders from headquarters reveal the original plan of reveille at 7 bells, but work begins at 8 and lasts until 11 o'clock instead of 8 to 10 o'clock. Polls will be open from 11 to 1 o'clock. After mess at 1, High Court session will get underway at 2:15.

Sentinel plans picture auction

The Sentinel has hundreds of good pictures that were taken for the 1945 book and were not used. In order to dispose of these pictures fairly, the Sentinel is offering them to the student body at an auction sale to be held in the Bitterroot Room of the Student Union Building on Monday, April 30, from 4 to 6 o'clock.

All the better pictures will be sold to the highest bidders. The others will be priced and may be purchased direct from the display.

NOTICE

The Student Betterment committee will meet Tuesday in the Bitterroot Room of the Student Union at 5 o'clock. All members are urged to come as well as other interested students.

Class hours will be shortened to the usual Friday periods. The 11 o'clock classes will be eliminated. A schedule follows:

- 8:10- 8:45—First period.
- 8:45- 8:55—Intermission.
- 8:55- 9:30—Second period.
- 9:30- 9:40—Intermission.
- 9:40-10:15—Third period.

The convo curtain will rise at 10:30 to a stage set with flags of the different nations. Students will be seated around the U-shaped table in delegations with Chairman Harris Hogan, Missoula, at the head. Off the stage a press table with busy journalists will add to the conference atmosphere. Peggy Newman, Butte, and Allen Lewis, Livingston, are in charge of the setting.

"The purpose of the student convocation," said E. L. Freeman, supervisor of the program "is to present before the university the prime issues of the San Francisco conference. Speakers are not necessarily voicing their own mind or the countries they represent."

The problems of international government will be tackled by approximately 38 students in 12 delegations. Based on the Dumbarton Oaks plan, the discussion will bring out such questions as the power of the security council, the number of votes in the assembly, and the veto power in the council.

Programs with a diagram clarifying the Dumbarton Oaks proposals will be distributed to the audience.

Fifty-four candidates run for office in primaries Aber Day

"Pick your favorite . . . and be sure he is the most capable!" should be each MSU student's underlying thought as he steps up to the ballot box on Aber Day to vote for candidates for the "big offices." Elections will start at 11 o'clock on the oval and will end at 1 o'clock.

This year, 54 candidates will vie for a place in the final elections, which will be held between May 1 and 5. The names of any persons can be written in on the ballot on election day, even if they have not turned in a petition. Candidates will try for ASMSU offices, class offices, delegates to Central Board and the store board.

Candidates for the all-powerful office of president of ASMSU are Jane Jeffers, Ennis; Lester Margetts, Missoula, Janet Reinertson, Hot Springs, and George Savage, Somers. Vice-presidential candidates are Mary Brome, Missoula, and Virginia Frach, Great Falls.

For ASMSU secretary, Margaret Garrison, Missoula, and Garnet

Sethne, Glasgow, will match their talents. Vern Fisher, Fort Benton; Marilyn Hillstrand, Great Falls; Patricia Murphy, Missoula, and Wayne Welch, Cut Bank, will compete for business manager of ASMSU.

Senior class candidates

Senior class candidates for president are Leota Halter, Sunburst, and Mary Ann Luebben, Dillon. For vice president, Lillian Martin, Stanford, and Barbara Scherrer, Helena, are in the running. Virginia Farnsworth, Missoula, is the lone candidate up for secretary and Norma Grasseschi, Black Eagle, and Lorraine Manix, Helmville, will vie for treasurer of the senior class.

Dorothy Davis, Dillon; June Sanders, Troy, and Jean Warner, Cut Bank, are candidates for senior class delegates to Central Board.

Petitioners for president of the junior class are Shirley Davis, Butte; Don Ryan, Butte, and Mary (please see page four)

Pre-Aber Day antics

It won't be long now!

The nearness of Aber Day is felt in many ways. Intermittent giggling from the "Campus Raking-ites" as they type a few lines and sit back to view their accomplishments—High Court scribes as they get the day's report from stooges planted in each house on the campus.

Rumor has it that the lawyers are feuding over who's doing what on the Aber Day script. One side warns that it will wash its hands of the whole works if the set-up continues to be a one-man job. This is only rumor—mind you.

Too, Aber Day's mud sheet develops a slight case of palsy occasionally when some timid soul suggests that the copy is getting a bit rugged. Time out for conversation and rationalization. The scandal-mongers go right on.

No matter what happens Aber Day promises to be bigger and better than ever. Even the coming elections seem to be on the up n' up. If they do no more than draw out a few skeletons and present them to the public, a great improvement will have been made.

On this eve of Aber Day, the Kaimin wishes to thank political candidates for their fine cooperation in support of the paper's campaign to test them on the ASMSU constitution.

Death plays no favorites

Two great Americans are gone. The nation, still stunned from the shock of President Roosevelt's death, listened numbly as radio commentators brought them news of another casualty—the death of Ernie Pyle, favorite columnist of this war.

It is not meant to compare them. They are incomparable. Yet, though their fields were widely separated, they shared a common interest. Roosevelt will go down in history as one of this nation's greatest leaders of the common people. Pyle was as great a proponent. He wrote to reach the hearts of those people.

There are few unfamiliar with the "Ravings" of Ernie Pyle. From a roving reporter he rose to the top rung on the ladder and received fame almost overnight for a new type of writing. Caustic phrases and consistent lambasting found no place in his daily column. He wrote of privates and generals, of chief mess sergeants and seamen first class. Big words and intellectual phrases were not a part of the "Ravings" content. Rather, he wrote as he might have talked had he dropped into your home for an evening.

His "Brave Men" and "Here Is Your War" brought a picture of the war to the public that could not be found in the news columns.

From Africa to Italy to France—then Ernie Pyle took time out for a much-needed rest. Within a few months he was back on the battlefield—this time to cover the war in the South Pacific. Wednesday morning he fell on Ie Jima before the fire of Jap machine gun snipers.

Whether in a bed or in a foxhole—death plays no favorites.

Letters to the editor . . .

Dear Editor:

What's happened to everybody who started the Coffee Hour out so well? Well here's my opinion. There obviously aren't enough professors interested.

I hope they aren't alarmed at the idea of talking with the swarm of students who invade the lounge every Wednesday afternoon. Really, these students aren't going after you professors for just a grade. They want to strike up an outside-the-schoolroom acquaintance. And it isn't, as one professor was heard saying, a mass meeting of apple polishers.

There are groups of stand-bys who you can always count on coming. They seem to like it. But what about you others—profs and students? Turn out for the next one. —A.V.M.

NOTICE

Beginning Monday, April 23, all change of enrollment cards filed in the Registrar's Office must have the signature of Dean R. H. Jesse, chairman of advisers, as well as the signatures of the instructors concerned and the student's adviser.

Place of woman changes from Aber Day status 30 years ago

"I don't think I'll work on Aber Day, the Sarge of our group won't miss me," remarked an unknowing freshman.

"You'll be sorry," an upperclassman retorted. "What do you think you're getting out of classes for? You might get an ice cold bath if you don't show up. And leave the lipstick off too!"

And so some mysterious day next week will dawn as the "M" Club drops in to drag all students and faculty members out to the tune of the Main Hall bell to face another great annual day on the MSU campus—Aber Day.

Thirty years ago, when Aber Day first started, the women were too frail and fragile to use the rake—or so they thought, consequently the fairer sex set up the food, served it and cleaned up afterwards. As years passed, girls were allowed to work an hour a day but since women jumped from straight-laced dresses into overalls, they, too, pitched in to help. The men have found the women to prove themselves worthy of Aber Day manual labor. Now the coeds do anything from passing pails or lime up to the "M" to raking in the gutters.

It has been said, "One person wanted to beautify the campus, the rest wanted a holiday, hence, Aber Day was established. Purpose—to clean the campus with everyone's help. If all work hard from 8 until 11, a well-deserved lunch will be served.

So, pile out, all, at 7 o'clock, report for duty at 8 o'clock whether it's serving meals or driving a truck. Just be sure your objective is a success.

There will be a meeting of the Economics and Sociology Club Monday at 5 o'clock in the Bitter-root Room.

MURRILL'S

At the PORK BARREL

BY ROBERT C. BLAIR

Since the last issue of the Kaimin two more candidates for top ASMSU offices have shaken off their cloak of secrecy and have come forth with programs that reflect rather extensive thought. Jane Jeffers and Les Margetts, both candidates for ASMSU president, presented me with platforms that contained the following points:

Miss Jeffers' platform:
"Efficiency, cooperation and co-ordination are three keywords of my platform. Efficiency of the executive officer, cooperation between independent and organized groups with the Association, and co-ordination of standing student committees and the student governing body—Central Board.

"Officers of the Association and student representatives in Central Board must feel at all times their responsibility to the students they represent.

"I advise not only a sounding out of student opinion but also an attempt to comply with the wishes of the students. It will be up to the president to bear in mind always that he represents the students as a whole.

Get down to fundamentals

"Co-ordination of standing committees and Central Board can be achieved only by getting down to the fundamentals which lie behind the lack of co-ordination. This I think is partly the fault of the "M" Book which is not up to date. Some by-laws passed as far back as 1941 have not yet been incorporated in the "M" Book.

"In this statement of my platform I have tried to get down to the causes of inefficiency displayed in previous administrations. Only by going to the roots of trouble, analyzing its causes, evaluating the needs of the Association and suggesting changes can any true progress be made.

"I sincerely hope that each and every student will feel it his responsibility to go to the polls on Aber Day and cast his vote in the primaries. I hope he will vote honestly and intelligently."

Another aspirant

Mr. Margetts' platform:
"I am extremely interested in Montana State University and the problems of the student body . . . We have a great university, but it could be greater. We can make our university so attractive that Montana youth will have no desire to go away to school.

"What we need then is greater interest in Montana State University by the student body. Only through the interest of students can we build up our university.

"My platform will be as follows:

"(1) To activate student interest in Montana State University, and in student government.

"(2) To represent the students in their policies and back the wishes of the majority. I can make no fantastic promises;—but I can promise that I will back the wishes of the majority to the utmost and do all in my power to see them fulfilled.

More Social Life

"(3) I feel that more can be done for the social life of the students. I realize that with the shortage of men, many functions such as dances, tend to eliminate a great number of the girls, therefore we must have functions that do not require dates.

"(4) Most of the convocations this year have been on an educational plane. The Convocations Committee has done a splendid job, but I feel that convocations should be primarily in the nature of entertainment. We are an educational institution, but not exclusively so. We have much talent, also a good dramatic coach, so let's have some pre-war convos.

"I have been associated with this university, except when in service, for the past five years and have known its good times as well as its bad. I know your problems and will do all in my power to correct them if I receive the very great honor of being elected. I honestly feel that because of my sincere interest, I can do a good job."

Acquaint students with MSU

It is not the duty of this paper to say which of the various aspirants to office are best qualified to hold office. It is our duty, however, to acquaint the students of the university with the various issues being discussed by the candidates for office.

To date only three candidates have bothered to prepare or to announce publicly the policy by which they intend to administer the office they seek. It is assumed that the remainder of the spring-time politicians are too lazy, too stupid, or too uninterested to take a stand and show their colors. When you vote, remember those who took the time.

Colonel will inspect ROTC unit today

Annual Administrative and Tactical Inspection for the ROTC unit at the Montana State University will take place today, announced Maj. George W. Misevic.

Lieut. Col. Glen M. Webster, C. E. P.M.S.&T. of Oregon State College will conduct the inspection for the Commanding General of the Ninth Service Command. Colonel Webster is also inspecting units

Campus personnel make visits to state high schools

Visits to western Montana high school by university personnel began this week when Pres. E. O. Melby spoke at 10 schools, and on the same trip addressed meetings of the Plains Women's Club and alumni groups in Plains, Libby and Eureka. Other members of the faculty will visit high schools next week.

The presidents of the six university units this year divided the state into six zones and to avoid duplication, each unit will send speakers only to its own district representing all the university schools. The faculty members will acquaint high school students with the opportunities in the Montana university system and answer questions of interested students.

Dr. Melby left Tuesday on his four day trip to visit schools at Dixon, Plains, Thompson Falls, Noxon, Troy, Libby, Eureka, Whitefish, Lone Pine and Hot Springs. He will return to the campus this evening.

Next week Dr. J. W. Severy and Miss Anne Platt will speak at Florence, Stevensville, Victor, Hamilton, Corvallis and Darby; Dr. Rufus A. Coleman at Arlee, Charlo, Ronan and St. Ignatius; Dr. Gordon Castle at Frenchtown, Alberton, Superior and St. Regis.

Dean Walter A. Anderson, Mr. Everett Marble, Dr. J. W. Howard and Dr. Charles W. Waters will all visit Polson and Big Fork. Anderson and Marble will also speak at Columbia Falls and Kalispell; Howard at Cut Bank and Browning; Waters at Sunburst, Oilmont and Shelby.

Marble will speak at the high school at Drummond later in the month.

in Washington and Idaho.

Practical demonstrations to be conducted by sophomores are as follows: scouting and patrolling; observation and messengers; cover and movement; concealment and camouflage; tent pitching, pack-rolling equipment and clothing; also the mechanical function of an M-1 and the 1903 rifle.

Freshmen will put on a demonstration of mapreading, first aid, interior guard duty, ceremonies and parades. The unit as a whole will put on a class order drill by Squadron Platoon, extended order by Squadron and Platoon, and a physical training.

Special curriculum committee defines basic education plan

BY H. G. MERRIAM

Students may like to see in print, before their discussion of it at the convocation May 11, the plan for "basic education" which the Special Curriculum committee of the faculty is studying. It was presented, in fuller outline, at the convocation on April 13.

Basic education is, in general, the non-major courses which are required of all students. Besides physical education for two years and communication (reading, writing, speaking—the present "language in action," modified) for one year, the plan under study proposes a year of a course in which psychology and philosophy and the nature and history of the spiritual ideas in the world's religions are combined. In addition, the plan would require all students to study in the four fields of knowledge now represented in our survey courses, namely, the physical sciences, the biological sciences, the social sciences, and the humanities, for one year in each.

Features of the plan

Some features of the plan need comment:

1. All students would take three of the survey courses (modified to serve better the aims and objectives of basic education), the fourth field of knowledge being covered in the major or the professional field;

2. Wherever instructors judged them helpful work periods or laboratory periods would be a part of any of the required courses;

3. Freshmen would take four courses instead of the three five-hour courses as now, plus physical education, military science (for men), and one-hour courses like chorus and acting, the total of credits being the same as at present;

4. The basic education could be taken as the faculty in any school or department might judge wisest—for instance, all in the first two years, or all in the last two years, or spread over the four years. The committee, however, thinks that any student would do well to take one survey course each of the first three years;

5. The requirement of a foreign language would be left to the wisdom and wishes of each school and department;

6. A series of substitute studies for the surveys might just possibly be worked out;

7. Each course in basic education should be taught from the point of view of the non-major student;

8. Each course, if it were found advisable, would be so taught as to clarify relationships of subject matters and the relationship of the matter of the course to good living after the student has been graduated;

9. This program would require all students (in the schools as well as in the college of the arts and sciences) 54 credits of study, exclusive of physical education and military science, as compared with the present requirement, of the arts and sciences students, of 60 or more credits, if the student has not taken a foreign language in his high school training.

Education aims

No program of studies should be developed without knowledge of the kind of results the education should aim to obtain. Like other colleges and universities over the country, this institution has worked out aims and objectives. Expressed in the most abbreviated form possible they are:

1. The graduate should have knowledge of himself and of society and its workings and should become an active participant in social living;

2. He should have a working knowledge of the physical and biological world in which we live;

3. He should have standards for judgment and for action;

4. He should have increased understanding and enjoyment of the good things of life.

ALD pledges 21 women

Bessire is new president; Rachac, Kidd, Ibsen, Elwell fill offices

Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman scholastic honorary, pledged 21 new members at a pledge meeting held Wednesday night at 7 o'clock in the Eloise Knowles Room of the Student Union.

Incoming pledge officers were elected, with Jean Bessire winning the presidency from Constance Rachac who automatically becomes vice president. Mary Kidd ousted Ellen Mouat to become secretary, while Lois Ibsen defeated Mary Wall for treasurer. Mary Elwell became historian in victory over Ruth Anderson.

Pledges are chosen on the basis of freshman activity and scholarship and become active during their sophomore year. All members must have maintained a 2.2 average for two quarters of their freshman year. The pledges are Florence Adams, Missoula; Ardis Allen, Denton; Ruth Anderson, Kalispell; Jean Bartley, Great Falls; Joan Bartlett, Salem, Ore.; Margaret Jean Bessire, Missoula; Norma Jean Drew, Billings; Mary Ruth Elwell, Billings; Lois Ibsen, Glasgow; Mary Kidd, Deer Lodge.

Helen Koechel, Saco; Mary Koenig, Conrad; Mary Lockhart, Missoula; Jean Loveborg, Missoula; Ellen Mouat, Hysham; Constance Rachac, Conrad; Jo Ann Tripp, Winnett; Mary Wall, Kalispell; Rosina Walter, Billings; Lois Ann Wood, Twin Bridges, and Virginia Young, Billings.

Alpha Lambda Delta which is a national honorary was started here in 1936. Since that time there have been 190 girls with active membership in this university. Louise MacKenzie is the present president of the local chapter.

Mrs. Ferguson is a national council member of Alpha Lambda Delta and attends the national council meetings which are held annually at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Women's rifle team gets underway

The women's rifle team of Montana State University started this week firing at the sitting position. During the first day of shooting many high scores were attained out of a possible 25.

Lillian Wedum, Glasgow, led the list with the perfect score of 25. Marjorie Orner, Lewistown, scored 24; Vivian Vick, Missoula, and Marigail Jones, Lewistown, 23; Blanche Kambo, Warm Springs, Peggy Newman, Butte, and Rosemary Wesphal, Forsyth, scored 22.

The balance of the week will be spent in shooting at the sitting position, followed by the kneeling position. Rifle Coach Stanek is well pleased with the results attained.

Scores between various sections are close and will produce interesting competition early in May.

Kappas win over Tri Delts in softball

Kappa Kappa Gamma pounded out a 17 to 8 win over the Tri Delts Wednesday night to make their first game their first victory of the season.

Tri Delt opened the game to tally 4 runs in the first inning, the most they ever collected in one inning. The Kappas batted in 7 runs in the last of the first to give them the lead which they never gave up. The only time the Tri Delts curbed the Kappa scoring was in the fourth when they put out three Kappas one right after the other.

The winning battery for the Kappas was Patty Cornitius and Mary Morrow.

Campbell is corporal in 631st battalion

The 631st field artillery battalion currently pumped 95-pound howitzer shells into German positions in Italy's Po valley. William R. Campbell '41, survey and instrument corporal, is a member of this battalion.

On its 440th day in combat the 631st had fired 132,000 shells at the enemy—more than 6,000 tons of metal. Once, when operating close to its targets, the battalion sustained casualties simultaneously in all three of its firing batteries. Its big ammunition dump was fired by enemy action recently, but the artillerymen smothered the blaze quickly, saving most of their shells.

Corporal Campbell was graduated from the forestry school here. His sister, Dorothy, is a sophomore at the university and is majoring in home economics. Corporal Campbell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude W. Campbell, Cut Bank.

Robert James Tubbs, ex-'41, is now a second lieutenant. He completed bombardier training at the Carlsbad Army Air Field, N. M., the world's largest bombardier school.

The officer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Tubbs, 437 Eddy avenue.

Of Cabbages and Kings

BY MANDI

"The time has come, the walrus said,
To talk of many things,
Of ships and shoes and sealing wax,
Of cabbages and kings."

Prince Machiavelli, lauded as the first compiler of an Emily Post for political despots, is credited with the line "Separa et imperia" . . . "divide and conquer."

As we were saying, last week a public-spirited little sheet "The Pink Report" appeared with a campus-wide circulation. A truly non-partisan publication, it purported to enlighten the Greek maids as to who was knocking whom in the back; and warned the independent damsels of the evils of Greek machine politics. In its zealous campaign to clean up MSU's student government, it's implications spared no house. All the mud that's fit to throw.

And they had a clear field. Panhellenic and Interfraternity's inner workings at times make Boss Hague seem slightly panty-waist.

Of course, males on the campus are outnumbered by some 7 to 1 and Panhel seems determined to back one really good gal. A male candidate would seem to have about the same chance as the proverbial snowball in Hades. Unless . . .

Odd that the male of the species—present administration excepted—was neglected. Machiavelli talked horse sense and Barnum said something about one being born every minute. Rather unflattering to the feminine esprit d'corps.
